PROLOZONE THERAPY

Ligaments literally keep the human body from falling apart. They are essentially the structural "rubber bands" that hold together the bones, joints and intervertebral discs. When injuries happen, it puts a severe strain on the areas that the ligaments are supposed to be holding together. This may lead to severe discomfort and pain because it is possible that a weakened ligament will no longer regain its original state.

The PROLOZONE THERAPY is a non-surgical injection-based treatment that is often used to address certain chronic and degenerative diseases. The term "Prolozone" is derived from the words "proliferation" which generally means to rebuild or grow and "ozone". Put together, it means a process of re-oxidizing the human body. With the help of Ozone and other nutrients, PROLOZONE THERAPY can activate the regrowth and healing of the injured areas within the body.

The benefits of PROLOZONE THERAPY include the following:

- Reduced pain
- Improved flexibility
- Decreased inflammation
- Reduced arthritis symptoms
- Improved mobility

The conditions that are commonly addressed by using PROLOZONE THERAPY are:

- Rheumatoid arthritis
